

Jason Butki, Director of Information Technology

Jason Butki is the Director of Information Technology at CMI Commercial Investment Company, Inc. In this role, Jason is responsible for developing and implementing an enterprise-wide strategic information technology plan. He directs application support and technical services for the information networks at CMI. Jason has been an achiever and team leader for over 15 years in marketing, product management, and executive leadership experience with a strong emphasis on emerging technology markets. He also has international business experience in marketing and selling both to and through corporate, government, channel and consumer markets. An entrepreneurial spirit and customer-focused mindset are the foundations of his professional philosophy.